Privacy Policy

1. General

This website is provided by Touchlab, a company based in Scotland, United Kingdom, which developed electronics skin technology, sensors solutions and robotics. We are making this page available to you to inform you how we handle your personal data collected on the page.

2. Responsible party

Responsible party for processing on their own responsibility in terms of data protection law is as follows:

Touchlab Limited,
Higgs Centre for Innovation,
Royal Observatory of Edinburgh,
Blackford Hill,
Edinburgh, Scotland,
EH9 3HJ
info@touchlab.io
Company number SC607401

3. Access and activity logs ("server logs")

Every time this page is accessed, general log data, so-called server logs, are automatically recorded. These data are usually pseudonyms and therefore do not allow any conclusions to be drawn about a natural person. Without this data, it would be technically impossible to deliver and display the content of the website. In addition, the processing of this data is absolutely necessary for security reasons, in particular for access, input, transfer and storage control. In addition, the anonymous information can be used for statistical purposes and to optimize the offer and the technology. In addition, the log files can be checked and evaluated retrospectively if illegal use of the website is suspected. The legal basis for this can be found in Section 15 (1) of the Telemedia Act (TMG) and Art. 6. (1) fDS-GMO. General data such as the domain name of the website, the web browser and web browser version, the operating system, the IP address and the time stamp of access to the website are recorded. The scope of this logging does not go beyond the scope of any other website on the Internet. These access logs can be stored for up to 30 days. There is no right of objection.

4. Error logs ("error logs")

So-called error logs are created for the purpose of identifying and correcting errors. This is absolutely necessary in order to be able to react as promptly as possible to possible problems in the presentation and implementation of content (legitimate interest).

These data are usually pseudonyms and therefore do not allow any conclusions to be drawn about a natural person. The legal basis for this can be found in Section 15 (1) TMG and Art. 6. (1) fDS-GVO. If an error message occurs, general data such as the domain name of the website, the web browser and web browser version, the operating system, the IP address and the time stamp when the corresponding error message / specification occurs are recorded. These error logs can be stored for up to 30 days. There is no right of objection.

5. Use of cookies

So-called cookies are sometimes used on the site. These are small text files that are stored on the device with which you access the website. In principle, cookies are used in particular to ensure security when visiting a website ("absolutely necessary"), to implement certain functionalities such as standard language settings ("functional") or to improve the user experience or performance on the website ("performance"). Right of objection: You can use your browser settings to determine whether you want to allow cookies or object to the use of cookies. Please note that deactivating cookies can lead to a restricted or completely disabled functionality of the website.

6. Use of third-party tools

In order to be able to provide and continuously improve our services, we rely on the services of the following third-party providers, through which personal data can also be processed. We have selected these third-party providers carefully and in accordance with the provisions of the GDPR.
